Hogan Personality Inventory (HPI)

Report For: Anindita Bose

ID: HL689291

Date: 5.02.2026

Introduction

The Hogan Personality Inventory is a measure of normal personality that uses seven primary scales to describe Anindita Bose's performance in the workplace, including how they manage stress, interacts with others, approaches work tasks, and solves problems. Although the report presents scores on a scale-by-scale basis, every scale contributes to Anindita Bose's performance. The report notes strengths as well as areas for improvement and provides discussion points for developmental feedback.

- When examining HPI scale scores, it is important to remember that high scores are not necessarily better, and low scores are not necessarily worse. Every scale score reflects distinct strengths and shortcomings.
- HPI scores should be interpreted in the context of the person's occupational role to determine whether these characteristics are strengths or areas for potential development.
- The HPI is based upon the well-accepted Five Factor Model of personality.

Scale Definitions

▶ HPI Scale Name	▶ Low scores tend to be	▶ High scores tend to be

Executive Summary

Based on Anindita Bose's responses to the HPI, on a day-to-day basis, they seem:

- Unfazed by external pressure and rarely, if ever, stressed. Others may sometimes perceive their resilience as arrogance because little seems to bother them and because they may tend to ignore feedback.
- Assertive, competitive, and task-oriented. They will seek opportunities to lead and take initiative and may be frustrated if opportunities are not available.
- Approachable, talkative, and comfortable meeting strangers. They may dislike working alone.
- Warm, charming, and agreeable. They should be good at managing relationships, but will avoid confrontations, conflict, and providing negative feedback.
- Self-disciplined, reliable, conscientious, and dependable. Although a good organizational citizen, they may also seem rigid and inflexible when it comes to process.
- Curious, innovative, creative, tolerant, and open-minded. They may also seem impractical and easily bored.
- Bright, eager to learn, and up to date with recent developments in the industry. They will value training for themselves and their staff and may be surprised by or disappointed in others who are not as well-informed or interested in learning.
